4. Committee Updates
a. Progress on Downtown- Adjacent Safe Encampment Sites: Update	4.a. Kohta Zaiser of the Mayor's Office reported that the city spearheaded two adjacent safe encampment sites in June of 2023. Kohta stated that 20th & B Street is the only active site with 136 tents. Kohta reported that the 20th & B Street site is intended to be a short-term site. Kohta announced that O Lot, projected to open in October, is the larger site South of the Naval Hospital with 400 tents able to accommodate families. Kohta reported that encampment abatements continue next week on J Street, K Street, 14th Street, 15th Street and 16th Street, followed by F Street to Broadway and 6th Avenue to 10th Avenue.	4.a. No action taken
b. Lucky Duck Foundation: Cash-for-Trash Program	4.b. Dominic reported that EVA was recently approached by Lucky Duck's Executive Director Drew Moser on a collaborative Cash-for-Trash program. Dominic shared that Cash-for-Trash works with the unhoused community via a trash collection system by offering a $2.00 stipend for every bag of trash collected and returned. This system is offered twice a week with a dumpster located off 16th and Commercial Street from 8:00am-12:00pm. Dominic stated that Lucky Duck is interested in expanding the program with additional sites and outreach workers. Dominic summarized by stating that while this would be a good PR narrative for the East Village, staff did have concerns of not being able to mitigate bad- faith participants that would empty EV trashcans. Diana Puetz suggested that the site remain at the 16th and Commercial Street location however increase the days of operation. Staff will continue to explore this prospect.	4.b. No action taken

d. EVA Call for Renewed Code Enforcement related to Sidewalk Vending in East Village	4.d. Dominic reported that illegal sidewalk vending has been occurring predominantly in the Gaslamp Quarters new 5th Avenue Promenade. Dominic stated that EVA staff will be coordinating on enforcement options with Michael Tremble to prevent sidewalk vendors from moving further East into the East Village. Dominic concluded by pointing out that local sidewalk vending is creating hazardous conditions on district sidewalks.
e. EVA's Policy Roadmap for Providing Immediate Shelter to Downtown Homeless	4.e. Dominic summarized that in June of 2023, the EVA sent a letter of support endorsing the sidewalk encampment ban. Dominic stated that the draft downtown homeless strategy roadmap was removed from the original letter as it was still in draft form. Dominic concluded that the letter will be reviewed at a later date once the City has progressed more in setting up its dual safe encampment sites.
5. East Village Updates:

San Diego's second safe sleeping site is now open.

Mayor Todd Gloria, Councilman Stephen Whitburn and other city officials provided a tour Friday of the site located on the edge of Balboa Park, also known as the O Lot. The city will admit the site's first residents on Saturday, officials said.

In what used to be the Naval Medical Center's parking lot, 21 tents out of the 400 planned are ready to serve San Diego's unhoused residents. These tents are lined up side by side and are staggered into three different levels on the property with the capacity to house up to two people and their belongings.

There is already a waitlist of over 120 people for the O lot.

City officials have considered this lot for months coinciding with the camping ban that started in June, as a way to eliminate encampments on public property with more shelters accessible to the unhoused population.

Within the O lot, residents will have access to restrooms, showers, laundry, meals and even a free shuttle to transport them between two other safe sleeping program sites. This shuttle will help them access other services, run errands and go to work and school as needed.

As of now, city officials expect O lot will be available for 18-24 months.

"Seven months ago we asked all 31 operational departments to be creative, to open up the minds to step up to the plate and identify city properties where we could provide safe sleeping sites. This is just one of those examples and many more to come." said Dargan.

The two service providers for this site will be Dreams for Change and the Downtown San Diego Partnership.

"With this site, we will be able to work with clients while they are in place of security and safety," said Betsy Brennan, CEO for the Downtown San Diego Partnership, "Security and safety is of utmost importance and environment much more conducive to talking about the next steps for how we can support them on their journey."

Mayor Gloria explained that the city charter dictates that this city property needs to be used for recreational purposes but under an emergency declaration a temporary exception has been given.

What We Know About the City's H Barracks Plan

The city identified H Barracks as a safe campsite or parking lot site that could potentially accommodate 300 to 700 unhoused individuals. Here's where things stand

Some Point Loma residents are coming out against a city plan to convert a space it's long used as a public safety training center into a shelter site for hundreds of homeless San Diegans.

A Change.org petition opposing the concept has garnered more than 3,000 signatures. Yet little is known about the city's plan for the site known as H Barracks.

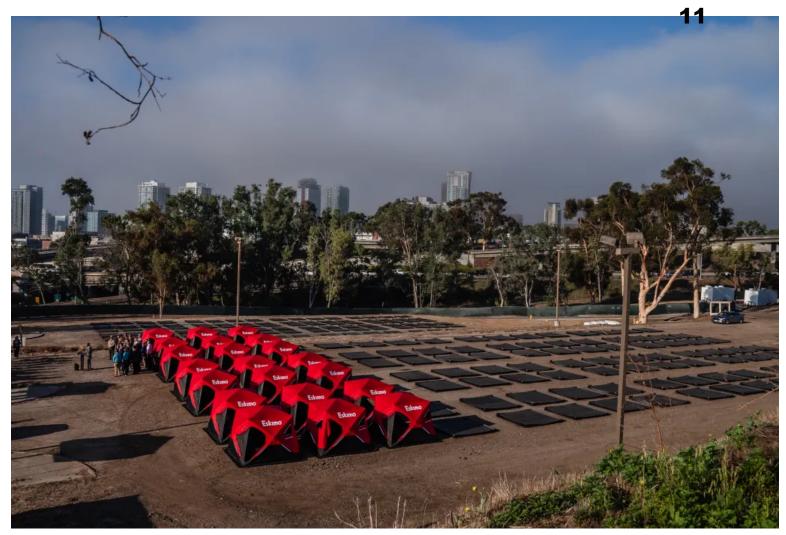

Here's a rundown of what we know.

Uh, where is it? The five-acre site is next to the San Diego International Airport and across the Esplanade Canal from Liberty Station. Per Google Maps, it's about a mile walk away from the popular arts and shopping district.

What kicked off the controversy: In June, the city released a shelter strategy that identified H Barracks as a site that could potentially accommodate 300 to 700 people in multiple large tent shelters and perhaps a safe campsite or a parking lot for people living in vehicles. At the time, the city estimated the project could be ready as soon as summer 2024 after 12 to 16 months of demolition of existing buildings and other work.

Where it stands now: Rachel Laing, a spokeswoman for Mayor Todd Gloria, said the city is now analyzing the site and plans to engage the community once it gets a handle on its plans. Once the site begins serving homeless San Diegans, Laing said the city expects it could be in operation for as long as five years. The city plans to eventually house a Pure Water processing site at H Barracks.

What's next: Gloria promises to share more details before the city moves forward, as he told NBC 7 and others at a press conference last week announcing the opening of the city's second safe sleeping site at the edge of Balboa Park.

"We have more work to do there. What we have is a concept," Gloria said. "We don't have much more than that right now and my commitment is to work closely with the community, just as we did here in Balboa Park to understand what the possible impacts will be and try as best as possible to mitigate it."

About those safe campsites: Operator Dreams for Change reported Thursday it has a wait list of about 200 people seeking a space in one of the city's two safe campsites and expects to fill both sites within the next few weeks.

As of Thursday morning, 40 people were staying at the O Lot near the Naval Medical Center and 109 people at the city's Golden Hill campsite. The drop in people staying at the Golden Hill campsite, which had served about 150 people the previous day, reflected a number of scenarios. Dreams for Change reported that 28 people exited the site effective Thursday for reasons including moves to other programs including housing and not returning to the city maintenance yard for five days. Dreams for Change said also it's in the process of moving some clients from the 20th and B campsite to O Lot. Among the reasons for the moves to O Lot is additional amenities that appeal to some residents and a plan to make certain parts of the Golden Hill site more accessible for people with disabilities. Laing confirmed earlier this week that with the additional upgrades the city's initial safe campsite will remain open beyond December, when an initial permit is set to expire. Laing said temporary permits will no longer be required following that work.

One family's safe camping experience: 10 News spoke to a mother and son who moved into O Lot this week.

The City of San Diego

Staff Report

DATE ISSUED:	9/29/2023
TO:	Honorable Committee Members
FROM:	Council District 2
SUBJECT:	Framework For Municipal Code Amendments to And Expressive Activities	Address Concerns With Sidewalk Vending
Primary Contact:	Venus Molina	Phone: (619) 236-6622
Secondary Contact:	Liezl Gloria	Phone: (619) 236-6622
Council District(s):	Citywide

OVERVIEW:

In this past year, we recognized the need to revisit and amend the San Diego Municipal Code to address concerns with sidewalk vending activities and to accommodate expressive activities while ensuring proper enforcement. We have developed a comprehensive framework that addresses the First Amendment, sidewalk vending impounding procedures and enforcement mechanisms, as well as some necessary clean-up language.

PROPOSED ACTIONS:

Request District 2 staff work with the Mayor and City Attorney to draft municipal code amendments to address concerns with sidewalk vending and expressive activities.

DISCUSSION OF ITEM:

Expressive Activity Regulations

The primary goal of such amendments is to strike a balance between protecting First Amendment rights on the one hand and maintaining public safety, order, and accessibility on sidewalks, parks and beaches on the other. This brief overview highlights the key considerations and steps involved in amending the Municipal Code for expressive activities. The proposal includes amending the sidewalk vending ordinance to no longer exempt people engaged in expressive activities, but instead establish reasonable rules and regulations for people engaged in expressive activities to balance between protecting constitutional rights and maintaining public order. A well-crafted ordinance will provide clear guidelines and prioritize the protections of First Amendment rights, while ensuring that sidewalks remain accessible and vibrant spaces for expression and commerce.

The fullest extent of First Amendment protections apply to what courts consider "pure speech", such as:

People who are speaking, proselytizing, or expressing religious, political, philosophical, or ideological messages, including handing out brochures that are not commercial ads

- Artistic performances
- Vendors of inherently expressive items (i.e. books, newspapers) and art created by the vendor work).
- Vendors of merchandise that is "inextricably intertwined" with a statement carrying a religious, political, philosophical, or ideological message (for example, a nonprofit environmental group selling shirts and buttons with messages about climate change).
- Examples of "pure speech"
 - Clothing, stuffed animals etc. sold as a fundraiser by a nonprofit.
 - Original art sold by the artist.
 - Sale of books, music, paintings, photographs, sculpture or CDs or recordings created by the vendor.
- Examples of activities that are not considered "pure speech" by the courts include sales of handcrafts, including jewelry, pottery, shea butter, incense and incense burners.
 - A vendor just saying the handcraft is expressive isn't enough to make the conduct expressive for purposes of First Amendment protections.
 - But sales of these items may be protected "pure speech" if the totality of the facts suggest the vendor's sales are inextricably intertwined with expression of a religious, political, philosophical, or ideological message.

In drafting proposed amendments, we looked at regulations recently adopted by the San Diego Port and are considering definitions for expressive activity, handcrafts, and visual art drawing from the language used by the San Diego Port. The Port's definition of "expressive activity" states:

"Expressive Activity"— Expressive Activity includes all forms of speech and expressive conduct, including but not limited to (1) the distribution of non-commercial information, (2) solicitation of funds, donations, subscriptions and/or signatures for a charity, religious organization, non-profit, or government entity, and (3) the sale of or performing artwork, speeches, and/or performances that are inherently communicative in nature and have only nominal value or purpose apart from its communication. Such items include but are not limited to the following: newspapers, leaflets, pamphlets, bumper stickers, buttons, books, audio, video, compact discs, video discs, records, sculptures, paintings and photographs, including prints of paintings and photographs, political campaigning activity, including the distribution of literature, stickers, shirts, cups or other promotional material such as signs and campaign messages, and any other similar item that is inherently communicative and has only nominal value or purpose apart from its communication. Expressive Activity shall not include (a) the provision of personal services such as hair weaving or massage, (b) the application of substances or Handcrafts to others' skin or body parts including but not limited to piercings, or ink, paints or dyes applied with a needle or machine (non-Henna tattoos), (c) the creation of Visual Art which is mass produced or produced with limited variation, or (d) the creation of Handcrafts. This list of exclusions is not intended to be exhaustive.

In addition, the proposed regulations would include general time, place, and manner rules that would apply to anyone engaged in protected First Amendment speech on City property. For example, the proposed regulations would likely include a space limit similar to the 24 square foot limit applicable to sidewalk vendors. Proposed regulations would prohibit using or attaching equipment to City property, including City utilities and could include provisions to ensure sidewalks and walkways are passable and safe for all people to use and moving along. Proposed regulations may address the use of amplification, umbrellas and other shade structures, and other equipment.

The proposed regulations would also allow the City to identify certain speech locations in designated areas within parks, plazas, and other high-traffic areas where there's a need and to set specific rules within the First Amendment framework for those areas. If the City established speech areas in a specific park, the proposed regulations would require speakers to use those areas only and would be available on a first-come, first-served basis. First Amendment areas would be limited to expressive activity and could not be used for sidewalk vending or other non-speech activities. The proposed regulations could also allow the appropriate departments to establish specific regulations if needed to protect sensitive environments and use of available space.

Expressive Activity regulations would apply to performers/buskers, First Amendment vendors, protestors, and any other speakers engaged in protected speech. Anyone who is not engaged in protected speech activities but is selling items on public property is a sidewalk vendor and must comply with the SVO. Amendments to the SVO and language in the proposed new Division would make this distinction clear.

Impounding of Sidewalk Vending Equipment

The need for impounding procedures and increased enforcement measures arises from the challenges posed by rogue vendors who often disregard existing regulations and operate in a manner that disrupts public order and safety. These individuals have engaged in activities that obstruct sidewalks and create unsanitary conditions. Impounding provides a vital tool to swiftly address such issues by temporarily removing uncompliant vendors' equipment or goods. These measures aim to strike a fair balance between safeguarding the rights of legitimate vendors and maintaining the integrity of public spaces. Currently, the Sidewalk Vending Ordinance requires progressive enforcement as set forth by SB 946.

Violations associated with any part of the ordinance have been subject to escalating fines as set forth in the table below:

Administrative Citations
(Violations within one year) With Permit Without a Permit
First Violation	written administrative	written administrative warning and warning and referral	referral
Second Violation	$200	$500
Third Violation	$500	$1,000
Fourth Violation	$500 and/or	$1,000 and/or impoundment
	impoundment

The proposed amendments would remove the initial warning and replace it with a $100 for permitted vendors and $250 for unpermitted vendors.

Since the Sidewalk Vending Ordinance came into effect, City enforcement teams have encountered groups of rogue vendors who exhibit a complete unwillingness to provide information or adhere to the established regulations. In response, we are proposing the adoption of the impounding mechanism currently employed by the City of Orange that would allow immediate impound of a vendor's equipment or goods if the vending poses certain public health and safety concerns, including vending food without a valid health permit. (See attachment 1)

This tool would grant enforcement officers the opportunity to immediately impound the vendor's equipment and product if they are found in violation of any of the impounding codes.

Enforcement will be conducted primarily by the San Diego Police Department in addition to City of San Diego Park Rangers on a proactive and responsive basis to areas of high concern for public health, safety and welfare.

City of San Diego Strategic Plan:

Goal #2: Work in partnership with all of our communities to achieve safe and livable neighborhoods. Objective #1: Protect lives, property, and the environment through timely and effective response in all communities.

Goal #3: Create and sustain a resilient and economically prosperous City. Objective #1: Diversity and growth of the local economy.

Fiscal Considerations:

The cost to administer amendments has not yet been determined. City staff is currently determining the cost associated with the implementation.

Notes:

The preliminary methodology (shown in yellow) counted two individuals per tent and two individuals per vehicle.

On April 27, 2017, the Clean & Safe program adopted the counting methodology used by the Regional Task Force on the Homeless. Per the methodology (represented above by the dark gray cells), Clean & Safe staff counted 1.75 individuals per visible tent/structure and 1.66 individuals per vehicle that showed clear signs of habitation.

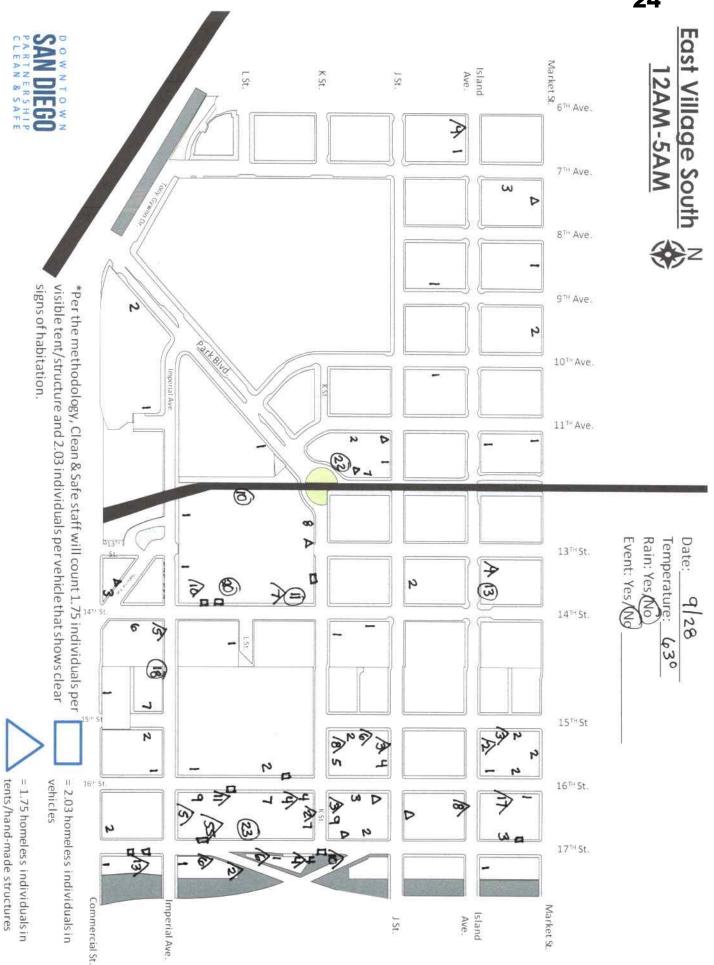

In May 2018, the Regional Task Force on the Homeless updated the methodology for vehicles to 2.03 that shows clear signs of habitation (the methodology of 1.75 individuals per tent/structure remained the same). The Clean & Safe program implemented this methodology on May 31, 2018 (represented in light blue).

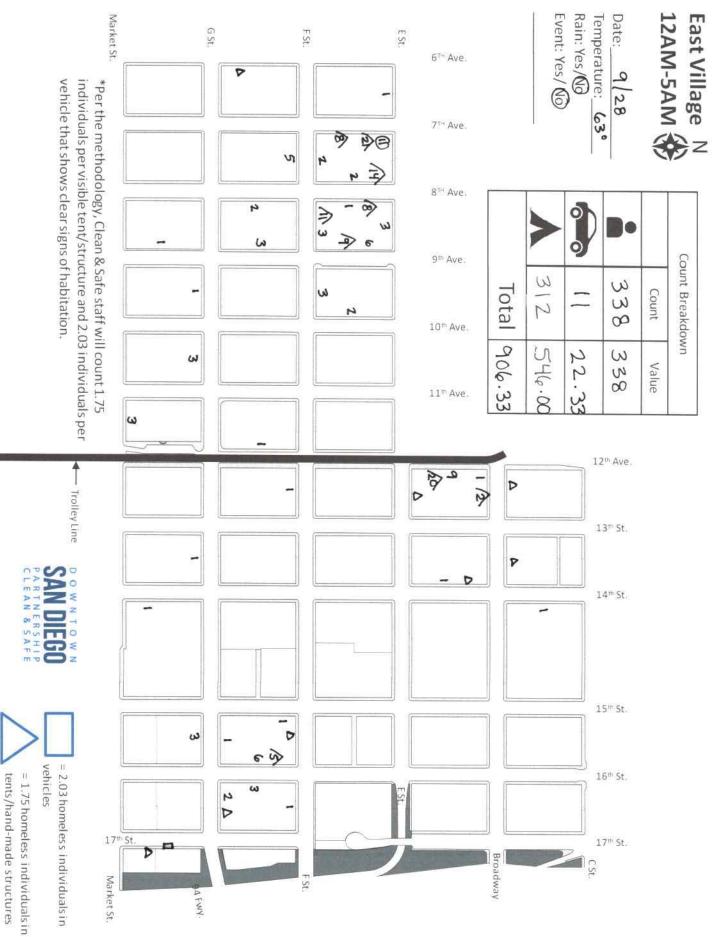

In January 2020, the Regional Task Force on the Homeless stopped using methodology for vehicles and structures, however, the Clean & Safe program continues to use the methodology.

Hello Ethan,

Your email was forwarded from the County regarding your concerns over a City managed portable restroom. We are happy to work with you on relocating the unit at 10th & G Street. These units throughout downtown are placed at the direction of the County, so it does need to remain in the general area but we have flexibility. Do you have a preferred location within a block or two where it can be moved?

Thank you,

Kyle Rodenbo Program Coordinator Homelessness Strategies & Solutions Department City of San Diego rodenbok@sandiego.gov (619) 609-9752

Hi Kristina, I wanted to provide a heads up that we will be looping you in on an email response that came through the Chairwoman's Office regarding a portable restroom managed by the City. The compliant is included below, along with the constituent's contact information.

Portable Restroom

Dear Office of Supervisor Nora Vargas,

I reached out to Kohta Zaiser (cc'd) from the Office of Mayor Todd Gloria regarding this issue although believe this is a County placed and maintained portable restroom. Can you please assist the EVA with this request to relocate the portable restroom at the corner of 10th & G Street?

My name is Ethan Olsen, I assist with the management of the East Village Association (EVA) with District Manager, Dominic Li Mandri.

The EVA has been receiving significant questions and complaints about the portable restroom at the corner of 10th Avenue & G Street across from Cowboy Star/Radian, both of whom serve on the EVA Board of Directors. We have been told from several East Village constituents that this is not an ideal location and brings in tremendous issues to the area, negatively impacting those dining and living across the street.
